

Indran Gegathesa is an entrepreneur and founder of RentSmart, who is deeply passionate about raising awareness about cervical cancer. In 2022, he experienced the devastating loss of three family members to cancer, which has driven him to take action towards fighting the disease and promoting cancer awareness.

As an avid cyclist who has been cycling since 2012 to stay fit, Indran is using his passion for cycling as a means to create awareness around cervical cancer. In July, he will be embarking on the Sepeda Amal Borneo ride, a grueling 700km journey spanning over six days.

Through this ride, Indran hopes to raise awareness about the prevalence of cervical cancer in Malaysia, where it is one of the most common cancers affecting women. He wants to encourage women to prioritize their health and undergo regular cervical cancer screening, as early detection is key to successful treatment.

Indran's commitment to this cause is inspiring, and his willingness to push himself physically and mentally on this journey demonstrates his dedication to making a positive impact. It's through the efforts of individuals like Indran that we can work towards a future where cervical cancer is no longer a major health threat to women in Malaysia and beyond.
